HARD8905 - Magellan Transmitter Bag

Radios used in our hobby have become very sophisticated units over the last few years and they are also one of the most expensive pieces of equipment we buy for our RC cars. We always have the radio with us when we go to drive our cars, whether to the track or the local park or field, otherwise we cannot run our cars. For many the radio is just in a bag together with the other equipment but without appropriate protection. In these conditions the radio easily gets scratched and damaged, and being the sensitive electronic controlling unit that it is, it also risks getting damaged more seriously. Does this not seem wrong ?

Styrofoam material

Comfortable and durable handle

The new HARD Transmitter Bag will protect your expensive radio in the best possible way, due to a very well thought out design together with the best protection materials. It's still a very compact bag though making sure it will be easy to carry with you. Even better yet, the HARD Transmitter Bag has the looks to go with the functionality. With its subtle grey and black finish the HARD Transmitter Bag protects your radio in style.
